FOLGS UPDATE

Hello and Happy New Year! We are busy planning the upcoming fundraisers for the rest of this academic year, keep your eyes peeled for info on the next movie night 🍿🎬, Gaddesden Gallop and Summer Fair ☀️! But first....

The Friends Folk Club Night is back with a vengeance. This is hot on the heels of November's sell-out gig with John Smith & Katherine Priddy. Our reputation for bringing first-class folk music to our little corner of Herts, Beds and Bucks must be on the rise!

📄 FOLK NIGHT FLYER 10_3_23.pdf

Fresh from performing on BBC Radio 3 on Christmas Day, we are very lucky to have The Wilderness Yet visit Little Gaddesden's village hall on Friday March 10th!

Having released their self-titled debut album last Summer to critical acclaim, The Wilderness Yet is on a roll. They have already published a songbook of their "newly written songs which sound as if they've been around for decades" (BBC Radio 2).

The Wilderness Yet comprises: folksinger Rosie Hodgson (BBC Young Folk Award Finalist), traditional fiddler Rowan Piggott (Future of Young Folk Award Winner), and guitarist-flautist Philippe Barnes (MA in Irish Music Performance). Independently, they have earned audiences' esteem as consummate musicians; together, they weave an eclectic tapestry of traditional and original songs and tunes; from a cappella three-part harmonies to luscious instrumental arrangements.

"This is something timely... The Wilderness Yet have released a lovely album..." – Mark Radcliffe, BBC Radio 2

"Absolutely beautiful... the three of them together make an absolutely wonderful sound..." – Mike Harding

"Exquisite" – Tom Robinson, BBC Radio 6 Music

Please get your tickets early as we are bound to sell out again and get ready to spring into Spring with a bit of Irish dancing - and of course, enjoying the craic along the way!

- Tickets £16
- Doors open at 7pm
- Fully stocked Tring Brewery Bar
- Food available
- More info to come on our Facebook page!
